POPULATION CENSUS	11	Explains population census Gives the meaning of terms related to population Discusses the information collected during census States the importance of census	Population is the total number of people living in an area at a given time. Uganda has a population of over 45 million people according to the 2020 national population census statistics. Population distribution is the way people are spread in an area. Population growth is the increase in the number of people in an area. Population explosion is the sudden increase in the number of people in an area. Population census is the official counting of people in a country. Population density is the number of people living in an area per square kilometre. Population structure is the composition of people in terms of age and sex. POPULATION GROWTH. Population growth is an increase in the number of people in an area of a country. Factors that encourage Population growth. High fertility rate among women. Improved security and peace. Improved medical services. Unplanned family size. Early marriages. Immigration. Polygamous marriage. Producing children for prestige. Availability of food. Refugee influx. Cultural factors that promote population growth. Polygamy Producing children for prestige. Forced early marriages. Advantages of population growth in an area. It creates a large market for goods produced in an area. It provides cheap labour force in an area. The government collects more taxes from the people in areas with a large population. It leads to development of an area. Disadvantages(dangers) of population growth. It leads to shortage of land for settlement leading to land fragmentation. It leads to development of slums. It leads to easy spread of communicable diseases due to congestion. It leads to high crime rate especially in urban centres. It leads to inadequate social services in an area. It leads to over exploitation of natural resources leading to environmental degradation. It increases government expenditure and slows down other developments. It leads to unemployment. Ways of controlling population growth. By encouraging people to use family planning methods. By promoting girl child education. By discouraging polygamy. By enforcing strict laws on immigration. By rewarding families with a small population. By discouraging early marriages. Natural disasters that may reduce the number of people in an area. famine due to drought landslides/mudslides lightning storms volcanic eruption earthquakes epidemic diseases	Guided discovery Guided discussion Think pair share Brain storming	To enable the learner understand how population dynamics shape communities and policies.	Discussing population and census Discussing the factors that lead too population increase Discussing population distribution.	Census Dense population Sparse population Population growth.

			Artificial hazards that may reduce the number of people in an area. Road accidents water and food poisoning fire outbreaks plane crush. wars Note: Population explosion is the sudden / rapid increase in the number of people in an area. The major cause of population explosion is the coming of refugees. Refugee influx can bring about a sudden increase in the number of people in an area. A refugee is a person who has been forced to leave his/ her country because of a disaster. Causes of refugees . Civil wars landslides famine volcanic eruption floods POPULATION CENSUS Population census is the official counting of people in a country. Population census is the process of collecting, analysing and using information about people in the country. Enumerators are trained people who collect information about people in the country during population census. The census exercise is organized by the Ministry of Finance, Planning and Economic development. The body in Uganda that is responsible for conducting the census exercise is the Uganda Bureau of Statistics (UBOS). A census night is the night before the census exercise is carried out. Population census in Uganda is carried out after every ten years. Reasons why the population census in Uganda is carried out after every ten years. It is very expensive to carry out every year. To allow population changes to take place. Importance of carrying out a population census in a country. To effectively plan for the people. To determine the birth and death rates. To determine the population structure (composition of the population in terms of age and sex). To know the level of people's living standards. To know the total number of people in a country. To know the level of literacy in a country.
POPULATION GROWTH	12	Explains the meaning of population growth Explains the factors that influence population growth	Types of information collected during a population census. Age of the family members. Number of children produced by the couple. Type of housing in a home stead. Sex of the family members. Religious status of the family members. Occupation of the people in a family. Major source of energy used at home Level of education of the family members. Problems faced by enumerators during a population census. Harsh weather conditions Poor transport network in some areas. Ignorance amongst the people Insecurity in some areas. Moving long distances Problems faced by the government during a population census.

		Explains the dangers of fast population growth Discuses how to control population growth Gives hazards that check on population growth	Shortage of funds. Wrong information given by some people Insecurity in a country. Poor transport and network. Shortage of skilled enumerators.
POPULATION DISTRIBUTION	13	Explains what population distribution means Explains factors for population growth	POPULATION DISTRIBUTION. Population distribution is the way people are spread in an area. The distribution of the population in Uganda varies from one area to another. Some areas of Uganda have very many people (are densely populated),some have a moderate number of people (optimum population) while others have very few people (sparsely populated) Dense population is the situation when an area has many people compared to the size of the land. Sparse population is the situation when an area has very few people compared to the size of the land Optimum population is when the number of people living in an area can be well supported by the available resources Types of population distribution. Dense population. Sparse population. SPARSE POPULATION Sparse population is when an area has very few people compared to the size of the land. Areas that are sparsely populated. Semi-arid areas forested areas. areas affected by civil wars rural areas steep slopes areas affected by natural disasters. Why the above areas are sparsely populated. a) Semi-arid areas. The areas experience long dry seasons. The areas receive very little. They have infertile soils. They experience very high temperatures during day time. b) swampy areas They are greatly affected by floods during the rainy season. They have dangerous aquatic animals that attack people. c) Forested areas They have many disease vectors. They harbour many dangerous animals which are dangerous to people. The government doesn't allow human settlement in such areas. d) Steep slopes. They have poor transport network. They hinder mechanisation of agriculture.

			e) Areas affected by civil wars. People run away from such areas in order to save their lives. f) Rural areas. They have poor social services. They have limited market for goods. They have few job opportunities. Factors that lead to low/ sparse population in an area. Unreliable rainfall/drought. Poor/infertile soils Outbreak of epidemic diseases in an area. Outbreak of famine Political instability/insecurity. Poor social service delivery. Presence of natural disasters like floods, landslides DENSE POPULATION. This is when an area has many people compared to the size of the land. Areas that are densely populated. Around the shores of lakes Plateau areas Around river banks Areas with favourable climate Urban areas (cities, towns and trading - Areas with fertile grounds for crop centres) Examples of densely populated areas. Lake shores They have fertile soils for crop growing. They receive reliable rainfall which supports crop growing. Presence of lakes promotes fishing. River banks They have fertile soils for crop growing. They receive reliable rainfall which supports crop growing. Presence of rivers promotes fishing. Urban areas They have many job opportunities They have better social services. They have a large market for goods. Plateau areas They have fertile soils for crop growing. They receive reliable rainfall which supports crop growing. Plateau areas have lakes and rivers which promote fishing. Mountain slopes They have fertile soils for crop growing. They receive reliable rainfall which supports crop growing. They have plenty of minerals which promote mining. Areas along the major roads. Such areas usually have a large market for goods. There is easy access to social service centres. They have many trade opportunities. Factors that lead to a dense/ high population.

			Reliable rainfall. Industrialisation. Availability of employment opportunities. Improved peace and security. Presence of natural resources. Urbanisation. Factors that influence population distribution. Rainfall distribution. Government policy. Employment opportunities. Nature of the soil. Relief of an area. Political stability. Social service provision. How the above factors influence the population distribution of an area. Rainfall distribution/ climate. The areas that receive reliable rainfall are densely populated because they support farming. Areas that receive very little are sparsely populated because they can't support crop growing. Nature of the soil. Areas that have fertile soils are densely populated because they support plant growth. Areas with infertile soils are sparsely populated because they can not support plant growth. Vegetation distribution. Areas that have thick vegetation are not occupied by people because they harbour dangerous animals, vectors and pests. The areas with good vegetation cover like savannah grasslands are favourable for human settlement. Relief. Steep slopes of mountains have few people due to land slides, soil erosion and poor transport. Plateau areas and gently sloping lands are densely populated due to fertile soils,good drainage and better transport networks. Valley areas and plains have a low population due to floods and high temperatures. Social service provision. Areas with good social service provision are densely populated while those with poor social service provision are sparsely populated. Government policy. The government stops people from settling in certain areas like game parks, game reserves, swamps making them sparsely populated. Political stability. Areas that are politically stable are densely populated. People take refuge in more peaceful areas compared to those that experience wars. Urbanisation. Developed areas like towns attract many people because they have good jobs and employment opportunities while rural areas are sparsely populated due to poor social services leading to rural-urban migration.
POPULATION DENSTIY	14	Explains the meaning of population density Explains the meaning and factors of high population density Explains the meaning and factors of low	POPULATION DENSITY. This is the number of people living in an area per square kilometre. How to determine population density. Population density = total population(people). Total area (km^2) Example:An area has a population of 600,000 people, living in an area of $300km^2$, calculate the population density of that area. Population density = total population. Total area (km^2) =600,000 people $300km^2$ =200 people/km^2 Therefore, the population density of that area is 200people/km^2 Types of population density. a) HIGH POPULATION DENSITY. This is a large number of people living in an area compared to the available resources. Areas with a High population density. Shores of lakes. eg.lake Victoria population density Discusses how HIV/AIDS affects population Discusses problems associated with high and low population density Discusses the solutions to the problems of low population density Lists the difficulties a family finds in looking after a big number of children	Mountain slopes eg.mountain Mufumbiro Major towns and cities Kampala,Masaka,Jinja,Mbarara,Arua Advantages of High population density in an area. It creates a large market for goods. It leads to a large labour force in an area. It leads to high revenue collection in form of taxes. It promotes development in an area. It promotes proper utilisation of resources in an area. Problems associated/ caused with a High population density. Unemployment. Shortage of food. Easy spread of communicable diseases. Development of slums. Poor hygienic condition leading to disease outbreak. Environmental degredation. High crime rate. Solutions to problems associated with a High population density. People in urban areas should build storeyed buildings to solve a problem of land shortage. Government should provide better social services in rural areas to promote urban- rural migration. Empowering the youths to start small scale businesses (projects). By extending electricity to rural areas. Educating people to use modern methods of farming to increase food production. b) LOW POPULATION DENSITY. This is when an area has a small number of people compared to the available resources. Advantages of a low population density. People have enough land. It promotes conservation of the Low crime rate. natural environment in an area. There is enough accommodation. Communicable diseases can not easily spread from one homestead to another. Disadvantages of a low population density. There is low market for local goods or imported goods. There is low labour force. There is low tax base for the government. There is poor social service provision. There is limited social security. There is under utilisation of resources in an area. Solutions to a low population census. By improving social services to attract more people. By setting up industries in an area. By encouraging mechanisation to increase food production. By encouraging people to marry many wives. EFFECTS OF HIV/AIDS ON POPULATION. HIV stands for Human Immunodeficiency Virus. AIDS stands for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. AIDS patients are people who suffer from AIDS. AIDS patients in Uganda are cared for by The AIDS Support Organisation (TASO). How TASO helps AIDS patients. It provides them with counselling services. It provides them with Anti-Retroviral drugs (ARVs) It provides relief aid in terms of food.

			How AIDS is spread. By sharing sharp objects with an infected person. Contact of wounds with blood of an infected person. Having unprotected sexual intercourse with an infected person. Using unsterilised sharp objects during some cultural practices like circumcision. Through blood transfusion with an infected person. Use of ABC to prevent AIDS. A=Abstain from sex (to unmarried people) B=Be faithful to your partner (to married couples) C=Condom use. Social effects of HIV/AIDS on the population. It leads to death of people. It causes misery to the infected person. It leads to isolation. It leads to many orphans due to deth of the parents. Economic effects of HIV/AIDS on population. It leads to loss of efficiency at work. It leads low labour supply due to death of many people. It leads to poverty in a family as a result of overspending on drugs treating those infected. It leads to low market for goods due to death of many people.
